Biographical/Historical Information

In 1970, the Governor's Management Commission Study recommended the creation of six "Deputy Governors" to assist the Chief Executive in his managerial duties. Compatible functions of government were grouped under these administrative heads, who would serve as the Governor's top management team.

The office of the Secretary of Transportation and Public Safety was created on April 8, 1972. Originally, the Secretary of Transportation and Public Safety oversaw the State Highway Commission, Division of Motor Vehicles, Department of State Police, Highway Safety Division, Office of Emergency Services, Department of Military Affairs, Virginia State Crime Commission, and the Law Enforcement Officers Training Standards Commission. Since that time, the Office has undergone a series of administrative reorganizations. On April 12, 1976, the Legislature established separate secretariats for transportation and public safety, effective July 1, 1976. On July 1, 1984, the offices were again combined. Finally, the two became separate offices on February 22, 1990, and have remained separate in the years since.

The Secretary of Public Safety is a member of the Governor's Cabinet, is appointed by the governor, and is subject to confirmation by the General Assembly. Throughout Governor Mark R. Warner's term (2002-2006), the Secretary of Public Safety was responsible for the direction of, or had jurisdiction over, 11 state agencies and boards. The agencies and boards under the heading of the Secretary of Public Safety during the Warner administration are as follows: Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, Commonwealth's Attorneys' Services Council, Department of Correctional Education, Department of Corrections, Department of Criminal Justice Services, Department of Emergency Management, Department of Fire Programs, Department of Juvenile Justice, Department of Military Affairs, the Virginia Parole Board, and the Virginia State Police.

On December 20, 2001, Governor Mark R. Warner appointed John W. Marshall as his Secretary of Public Safety. Prior to taking this position, Marshall had served as a trooper, special agent, training academy instructor, and sergeant with the Virginia State Police. In 1994, President William J. Clinton appointed Marshall to serve as the United States Marshal for the Eastern District of Virginia. In 1999, he was nominated to serve as director of the United States Marshals Service. He was the first African-American to hold this position.

On December 29, 2001, Governor Warner appointed Robert P. Crouch, Jr. as Chief Deputy Secretary of Public Safety. Later, in March 2002, Barry R. Green was appointed to serve as Deputy Secretary, and Marilyn P. Harris was appointed to serve as Assistant Secretary of Public Safety, as well as the Director of the Governor's Office for Substance Abuse Prevention (GOSAP). In April 2002, Dawn Smith was also asked to serve as an Assistant Secretary, a position she held throughout the four-year term. Crouch left in May 2005 to become Counselor to the Governor, and Green left in June 2005 to take over as Director of the Department of Juvenile Justice. Harris was then appointed as Deputy Secretary, and served in that position until the end of Governor Warner's term.

Information about this office is also available in the archived website files of the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety, (2005-2006). They can be found by searching the Library of Virginia's catalog using "Secretary of Public Safety" as the subject.

Series III. Constituent Correspondence, 2002-2006.

Boxes 7-37 (box)

Extent

Extent: 10.7 cu. ft.

Scope and Content

Contains constituent correspondence pertaining to all agencies and boards overseen by the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety. Most of the letters were originally addressed to Governor Warner, but were assigned to the Secretary of Public Safety for response based on their subject matter. A large number of letters pertain to prisoners held by the Department of Corrections. In many cases family members wrote to the Governor for assistance in obtaining pardons, granting parole, and conducting investigations. Other topics included in the correspondence include gun control legislation, budget shortfalls in terms of the Pre-Release and Post-Incarceration Services (PAPIS), Substance Abuse Reduction Effort (SABRE), and drug court programs. Additional subjects include the implementation of a Virginia Amber Alert system, the D.C. sniper situation, Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) issues, the Roger Coleman DNA case, the "no parole" law, and hurricane/disaster relief. Correspondence from 2002 makes up a little more than half of the material. This series contains restricted information that has either been redacted or sealed. The material may include, but is not limited to, medical records, social security numbers, Department of Corrections inmate classification material, and Parole Board review documents.

Arrangement

The files are arranged by the system number generated by the Governor's Office, which puts the letters in very rough chronological order. Researchers interested in a particular topic or agency should also utilize the Agency Correspondence and Historical Records series because they contain correspondence, as well as supporting documentation.

Series VI. Historical Records, 2002-2005.

Boxes 41-50 (box)

Extent

Extent: 3.6 cu. ft.

Scope and Content

Contains material pertaining to various public safety issues that garnered attention during the Warner Administration. The files contain correspondence (constituent and internal), reports, press material, notes, and other working papers associated with each topic. Topics include: Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) privatization, the Amber Alert system, the murder of convicted sex offender Richard A. Ausley, the Bias-

Based Policing Advisory Panel (racial profiling), the Corrections Facility Task Force (prison closings), the DUI Task Force, gang activity, hurricanes and storms (such as Isabel and Gaston), narcotics enforcement, the Washington D.C. area sniper attacks, and the Virginia Citizen Soldier Support Council. The records served as subject files compiled by the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety for reference purposes. The records contain an abundance of behind-the-scenes commentary on some of the biggest issues of Governor Warner's term. The two largest categories are the files pertaining to the Bias-Based Policing Advisory Panel and the Corrections Facility Task Force.

Arrangement

The topics are arranged alphabetically, as are the folder titles within each category. The type of arrangement varies within each folder, but is usually chronological. The majority of the historical records are comprised of various types of correspondence. In most cases, constituent and internal correspondence are mixed together, and arranged chronologically. However, in some cases they are arranged differently. For example, the correspondence for the Corrections Facility Task Force that was submitted directly to the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety is labeled "loose," and is arranged chronologically. The letters submitted to the Governor's Office that were rerouted to the Office of the Secretary of Public Safety are filed according to their outgoing system number. The internal correspondence folders are arranged chronologically, and contain email messages, letters, and memos sent between employees of the Secretary of Public Safety. Additionally, an introductory video for members of the Biased-Based Policing Advisory Panel is boxed separately from the paper files in box 51. Researchers interested in correspondence should also utilize the Agency Correspondence and Constituent Correspondence series.

Series VII. Legislative Files, 2001-2005.

Boxes 52-78 (box)

Extent

Extent: 9.5 cu. ft.

Scope and Content

Contains legislative action summaries, enrolled bill reviews, financial impact statements, and other miscellaneous legislation-related documents which explain in detail various bills brought before and voted upon by both the Senate and the House of Delegates. The Secretary of Public Safety was tapped by the Governor to respond to all General Assembly activity involving the agencies and boards assigned to his office. Decisions were reached with the aid of agency heads with working knowledge of how legislation might affect the agency's ability to operate. Most of the files contain legislative action summaries which include whether the Secretary supported the bill, supported it with amendment, opposed the bill, or took no position on it. The summaries often contain comments and reasons for support or opposition. The files for bills that were not killed in committee or withdrawn also contain enrolled bill reviews, which summarize the bill and the number votes for passage achieved by the House and Senate. The reviews also include notations as to whether the Governor should sign, ask to amend, or to veto the bill. Most files contain a full text version of the bill and any changes that were made to it as it progressed through the General Assembly. Some files contain fiscal impact statements which detail the monetary affect any legislation might have on certain agencies, as well as general agency impact analysis. Others also contain internal correspondence related to that particular bill. Also included in this series are files pertaining to various aspects of the legislation process such as bill tracking, carryover legislation, and legislative proposals. The proposals are submitted in the months prior to the January start of the Legislative Session, so the dates may differ slightly. Proposals for the following year are placed with the later files (e.g., 2005 proposals were written in late 2004, but are kept with the 2005 legislative files). This also applies to material created in late 2001 for use during the 2002 Legislative Session.

Arrangement

Files are arranged chronologically by year, then by bill number. House bills are first, Senate bills are second, and joint bills are third. Miscellaneous files are arranged alphabetically by title at the end of each year.

Series IX. Secretary's Correspondence, 2002-2006.

Boxes 81-86 (box)

Extent

Extent: 1.9 cu. ft.

Scope and Content

Contains correspondence files kept by the Secretary of Public Safety during the administration of Governor Mark R. Warner. These files are different than the constituent correspondence, though they do contain some correspondence between the Secretary and various constituents. Most of the constituent letters are in regard to Department of Corrections inmates and the activities of the Parole Board. This series also contains internal correspondence and memos between the Secretary and other state agencies, as well as agencies within the Public Safety secretariat, and members of the Public Safety office itself. This series contains restricted information that has either been redacted or sealed. The material may include, but is not limited to, medical records, social security numbers, Department of Corrections inmate classification material, and Parole Board review documents.

Arrangement

The Secretary's correspondence is arranged alphabetically, and is chronologically reversed within each folder. If there are multiple folders for one letter, each folder is individually numbered (e.g., 1 of 3, 2 of 3, 3 of 3). The first folder for any letter will contain the latest correspondence and the last folder will contain the earliest.
