Historical Information

The Policy Office is a division of the Office of the Governor in the Executive Branch of Virginia state government. During Governor Terry McAuliffe's administration, the Policy Office was responsible for identifying emerging issues, implementing gubernatorial initiatives, and providing policy and political advice to the Governor. The Policy Office worked with the Cabinet and Administration to develop gubernatorial policies and conduct outreach to key stake holders. The Policy Office was responsible for managing the legislative process (preparing bills and legislative packages, legislative liaisons to the General Assembly and reviewing bills), assisting in the development of executive orders, reviewing budget requests, assisting the press office, scheduling office and chief of staff with policy background and analysis, and ensuring agency performance in implementing the administration's agenda.

Major policy initiatives focused on the economy, education, health care, natural resources, public safety and transportation. Some of the education initiatives included increased funding for pre-K and early childhood education, expanded workforce credentials and apprenticeship programs, and reforming the Standards of Learning (SOL) test. In health care, the Governor created the Task Force on Prescription Drugs and Heroin Abuse to address the heroin and opioid epidemics. The administration failed to expand Medicaid via the Affordable Care Act. Those efforts are included in this collection.
