Biographical note

Dr. Ronald J. Fisher was a prominent figure and contributor to the field of Conflict Resolution. He started his career at the University of Saskatchewan in the early 1970s, working as a Professor of Social Psychology with a specialization in Conflict Resolution. Fisher worked with the regional community, developing workshops for domestic and international issues, and participated in university organizations to further his goal for international peace. Later, he worked at a variety of institutions, including the George Mason University School for Conflict Analysis and Resolution, as a visiting professor and at American University as the Director of the International Peace and Conflict Resolution Program.

Dr. Fisher actively participated in conferences and workshops with a variety of people in the Conflict Resolution field. He researched and conducted workshops on the crises in countries like Cyprus and Sudan to find a peaceful end to their civil strife. Dr. Fisher also hosted and contributed to a variety of peace groups and non-governmental organizations, such as the United States Institute of Peace and the Institute of World Affairs, what is now the Alliance for Peacebuilding.

Scope and Content

This collection contains materials from Dr. Ronald J. Fisher's entire professional life, from the late 1960s to the mid 2010s. His work covers a wide array of topics, from domestic conflict resolution, training and consultation, and international disputes such as ones in Cyprus and Sudan. Some materials also have French translations. Content includes items from workshops, conferences, books, journal articles, professional correspondence, and materials from various peace groups/non-governmental organizations.

Series 1: Correspondence and Domestic Conflict Resolution Training Materials (1965-2001). Correspondence includes letters and e-mails from Dr. Fisher's time in graduate school to the mid 2010s, to leaders in the industry such as John Burton, Herbert Kelman, and James Laue. This series includes professional correspondence to both individuals and publishers for his works. The domestic conflict resolution training materials are from his early career while at the University of Saskatchewan.

Series 2: International Conflict Resolution Training and Consultation Materials (1992-2001). The materials contained in this series involve non-governmental organizations and his association with them. It contains workshop materials, correspondence, and handouts.

Series 3: Conflict Resolution Initiatives (1983-2006). Contains work with various organizations and groups on topics such as ethno-political warfare, international conflict resolution, and intergroup conflict training.

Series 4: Conflict Resolution Book Manuscripts (1970s-2005). Contains print-outs of chapters and research from his published books. Contains interviews with influential professionals in the field such as John Burton, Christopher Mitchell, and Leonard Doob.

Series 5: Journal Articles, Conference Papers, and Book Chapters (1968-2015). Contains works throughout his career, starting with his MA thesis. This series contains materials from his contributed works to various individuals' books, non-governmental organizations, and conferences.

Series 6: Conflict Resolution Workshops, Conferences, and Non-Governmental Organizations (1988-2013). Contains materials from Cyprus and Sudan related peace workshops, Cyprus trips, and writings relating to the conflict. Furthermore, it contains materials relating to non-governmental organizations such as the U.S. Institute of Peace, Institute for Multi-Track Diplomacy, Institute for World Affairs, etc.

Series 7: Audiovisual Materials (1983-1992). Contains interviews with various influential names in the field, such as Herbert Kelman, Leonard Doob, Christopher Mitchell, Tony Derueck, John Groom, James Laue, and recordings from Fisher-led several workshops. Digital versions of these tapes are available to the public for use onsite in SCRC's reading room.
