Biographical / Historical

Paul C. Nagel (1926-2011), a native of Missouri, was a historian and biographer. He was best known for his work on the Adams and Lee families. Nagel taught history at the University of Kentucky and later served as dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. In 1969, he became the vice president for academic affairs at the University of Missouri. In 1980, he moved to Virginia to become the director of the Virginia Historical Society. He left that position in 1985 to write full time.

Scope and Contents

The collection contains materials relating to Dr. Nagel's professional and literary career including teaching, administration and drafts of his books. The bulk of the collection relates to the development, research and publication of Nagel's work on the Adams and Lee families.
