Administrative Information

Conditions Governing Access

There are no restrictions on accessing the websites in this collection.

Conditions Governing Use

Because of the nature of this collection, copyright status varies across the materials. Copyright is assumed to be held by the original creators of the content. The University may grant permission to publish or reproduce intellectual property it owns in the name of The Rector and Visitors of the University of Virginia.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Archivists at the Arthur J. Morris Law Library capture and archive the website periodically.

Scope and Contents

This collection contains copies of the University of Virginia School of Law's public website. On that site, the School shares content documenting its work and the experiences of its students, faculty, staff, and alumni. This includes statistics, descriptions of school services, policies, center and program descriptions, links to affiliated organizations, news articles, videos, directories, marketing materials, short histories, and published research. While the website potentially reaches a broad audience, much of it is designed especially for the Law School's students, faculty, staff, and alumni. Other content on the website markets the School to applicants, donors, and employers.

Accruals

The Arthur J. Morris Law Library expects to add crawls of the School of Law's website to this collection at least once per academic year.

Appraisal

The websites archived in this collection are not identical copies of the original sites. Instead, they are close representations shaped by the appraisal decisions of archivists.

Archivists strive to capture copies of the School of Law website that are identical to the originals. However, to overcome technological limitations and to allow for sustainable preservation, archivists make appraisal decisions that result in the creation of representative copies that might function and look different from the originals. For example, when the website is too large to crawl and preserve as a single resource, archivists divide it into facets and crawl each part separately.

Description of Subordinate Components

Law School website

Unit ID Archival Resource Key

Unit Date 2004-08-19

Digital Archival Object

2004_08_19_UVA_Law_Website

Extent 0.387 Gigabytes

Immediate Source of Acquisition

In 2004, an unknown person downloaded the files that comprised the School of Law webpage and recorded them onto an optical disk. The optical disk was found in the Law Library's technical services room in 2023 and added to the website collection.

Scope and Contents

This version of the School of Law's website documents the public face of the School and the following elements of its work: admissions, academics, alums, giving, career services, library services, student life, and faculty research. Also, the website includes relevant directories and news articles.

Law School website

Unit ID Archival Resource Key

Unit ID /repositories/4/archival_objects/242015

Unit Date 2023-04-2023-05

Extent 344.725 Gigabytes

Immediate Source of Acquisition

Archivists at the Arthur J. Morris Law Library crawled the School of Law's website between March 2023 and June 2023 using the Browsertrix crawler and the ArchiveWeb.page application.

Scope and Contents

The University of Virginia Law Library conducted 40 crawls of the School of Law website. The files resulting from each crawl contain content representing a significant facet of the website. These facets include admissions, academics, research, alum services, library services, student life, faculty profiles, giving and fundraising, academic centers, and class profiles. Together, these resources richly document the School of Law's work and its public face.

Appraisal

Archivists divided the capture of the website into 40 crawls because they determined that it was too large to capture in one crawl. As much as possible, they tried to break the site into self-contained facets that reflected apparent divisions in the website. Ultimately, however, archivists were responsible for defining the facets and marking the boundaries between different kinds of content. Their appraisal decisions are recorded in text configuration files that are preserved with the web archive files.

The following resources published on the School of Law website in Spring 2023 were not included in this collection: staff and faculty directories, the Scholarship repository, the news archives, the media archive, library exhibits, and library databases. Archivists crawled much of this content, but deposited it in other collections to facilitate sustainable access and preservation.

Immediate Source of Acquisition

In October 2023, Dan Cavanaugh, an archivist at the University of Virginia Law Library, created the items in this file. The items were the product of scheduled web crawls of the University of Virginia School of Law website. That same month, Cavanaugh transferred the files to the Law Library's archival repository.

Scope and Contents

This file consists of wacz and associated metadata files that the Law Library produced while crawling the University of Virginia School of Law website. The Library, following its web archiving schedules, only crawled parts of the website.

Appraisal

Archivists divided the capture of the School of Law website into 49 crawls because they determined that it was too large to capture at once. As much as possible, they tried to break the site into self-contained facets that reflected apparent divisions in the website. Ultimately, however, archivists were responsible for defining the facets and marking the boundaries between different kinds of content. Their appraisal decisions are recorded in text configuration files that are preserved with the web archive files.

The following resources published on the School of Law website in Fall 2023 were not included in this collection: directories, the scholarship repository, alumni pages, reunion pages, podcasts, the news archives, the media archive, library exhibits, and library databases.

Digital Archival Object

2024_11_12_UVA_Law_Website_Crawls_b

Extent 149.67 Gigabytes

Immediate Source of Acquisition

In November and December of 2024, Dan Cavanaugh, an archivist at the University of Virginia Law Library, created the items in this file. The items were the product of scheduled web crawls of the University of Virginia School of Law website. In December 2024, Cavanaugh transferred the files to the Law Library's archival repository.

Processing Information

Due to the large size of the files captures during these web crawls, the archivist split the resulting files into two separate digital object containers. The digital container "2024_11_12_UVA_Law_Website_Crawls_b" contains all of the center and program pages. The other container, "2024_11_12_UVA_Law_Website_Crawls_1" contains the rest of the files.

Scope and Contents

This file consists of wacz and associated metadata files that the Law Library produced while crawling the University of Virginia School of Law website. The Library, following its web archiving schedules, only crawled parts of the website.

Appraisal

Archivists divided the capture of the School of Law website into many crawls because they determined that it was too large to capture at once. As much as possible, they tried to break the site into self-contained facets that reflected apparent divisions in the website. Ultimately, however, archivists were responsible for defining the facets and marking the boundaries between different kinds of content. Their appraisal decisions are recorded in text configuration files that are preserved with the web archive files.

The following resources published on the School of Law website in late 2024 were not included in this collection: directories, the scholarship repository, alumni pages, reunion pages, podcasts, the news archives, the media archive, library exhibits, and library databases.
