Preface to the Online Edition

> From the earliest days of its interest in special collections, the University of Virginia Library has given much attention to the writings and letters of Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the University.

The online edition of A Calendar of The Jefferson Papers of the University of Virginia combines into one chronological sequence the original 1950 calendar compiled by Constance Thurlow and Francis Berkeley and the 1973 supplement compiled by Anne Freudenberg and John Casteen. All Jefferson items in the possession of the University of Virginia Library are now included; new entries are added as additional Jefferson items are acquired by the Library.

The Calendar contains entries for all letters and documents in our collections written by or to Jefferson; letters docketed by Jefferson; 19th century copies of Jefferson letters transcribed by family members; photomechanical reproductions of some privately-held Jefferson letters, and of some Jefferson letters in other institutions (most notably the correspondence with Tadeusz Kosciuszko in the National Museum of Krakow, Poland), which are inaccessible to most researchers; and the Peter Jefferson documents held by the Library.

In updating the Calendar we retained the basic format of the earlier printed versions. A typical entry consists of the name of the writer, the place from which he writes, the name of the recipient, and the place to which the letter is directed, followed by the date of manuscript. This is followed by a brief physical description of the manuscript (e.g. ALS; typescript; 19th century copy, number of pages) and, for entries made between 1950 and 1973, information about the location of other copies and citations to printed versions. We have made no attempt to supplement entries for materials acquired since 1970 with notes on the location of other copies or additional citations of printed versions. The name of the University of Virginia Library collection of which the manuscript is a part and the collection's accession number are also included. The entry concludes with a summary of the text of the manuscript. Entries from the 1950 and 1973 editions are followed by a bracketed number that was assigned for purposes of indexing.

We have made several significant changes to the entries. The word "slave" replaces the word "servant" in all cases where the editors were sure the individual indicated was a slave. All photomechanical reproductions are given the generic label "photostat." Changes in ownership are noted when known. Each of Jefferson's architectural drawings is listed individually with the corresponding "Nichols number" taken from Thomas Jefferson's architectural drawings / compiled and with commentary and a check list by Frederick Doveton Nichols. -- 4th ed. - (Charlottesville : Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, 1988, c1995.)

For more details about the original compilation of the Calendar, please see the “Introduction to the 1950 Edition,” below.

Introduction to the 1950 Edition

In preparing this calendar of the University's Jefferson manuscripts, Mrs. Thurlow and I have freely made use of many people's work. Daily reference has been made to our Jefferson Checklist, a chronological card-file of some sixty thousand of Jefferson's manuscripts, and letters to and from him, now known to be extant in public and private libraries, in manuscript and in print. This Checklist was begun by John Cook Wyllie more than fifteen years ago, and has been expanded by many hands, particularly by a former staff member, Mrs. Helen D. Bullock. The Checklist is now being duplicated, expanded, and improved by Julian P. Boyd and the editors associated with him in the Princeton University publication project. Copies of the Checklist in its final form may later be made available at the Library of Congress as well as at the University of Virginia, and I venture to express here the hope that it may be printed for the use of students elsewhere. For it will contain much of value which must doubtless be omitted from publication in the Papers.

The typescript calendar of our Jefferson Papers, prepared by Mrs. Bullock in 1941, has been very useful here and at the Library of Congress, and particularly helpful in preparing the present calendar for publication. Printing costs and other factors have made necessary a more condensed form of entry in the present calendar. Since the preparation of Mrs. Bullock's calendar, which included photostats in our collections, our holdings of original manuscripts have nearly doubled. Photographic copies (more than 10,000 now being available in our reading room) have here been excluded except in a few instances of manuscripts in private hands and county court houses, which in a number of cases are the only known texts.

Researchers are warned that the length of an entry does not necessarily indicate our judgment of the importance of the item. We have attempted to include all names of persons and places. As a result, entries for certain legal documents are disproportionately long. We have tried to mention all major subjects discussed in each letter, but the reader who wants full details will be obliged to consult the original manuscript or order a photographic copy.

Each entry contains two paragraphs, the second of which is a condensed summary of the text of the manuscript, followed by a bracketed number for purposes of indexing. The first paragraph contains all "bibliographical data" about the manuscript and all other texts of it which are known to us from the data recorded and filed in our Jefferson Checklist. Following the date in a typical entry is the name of the writer, the place from which he writes, the name of the recipient, and the place to which the letter is directed. Then follows a symbol (see list below) which tells whether the manuscript is signed and whether or not it is written in the hand of the signer, with a statement of the number of pages in the manuscript. If another text of the manuscript is known to us, this information is then given as explicitly as possible. In some cases we can only say "another manuscript in DLC" (Library of Congress; see list of abbreviations below); often, however, we are able to state that the other manuscript is the recipient's copy, a polygraph copy, a letterpress copy, a file draft, or an extract or copy by another hand, either contemporary or later.

The final statement in each heading concerns known printed versions of the manuscript as recorded in our Jefferson Checklist. Many of the published texts are inaccurate or incomplete, as we indicate when known. All frequently cited publications are referred to by symbols (as listed in the table below) and punctuation is simplified for convenience in printing.

Special attention is invited to the case of "printing" which we indicate by the following oft-recurring expression: "Printed: B of R VI 372 (MS. in DLC)". This means that an abstract of another text of our manuscript (the other text usually being Jefferson's file copy) is to be found in the “Calendar of Letters from Jefferson,”in the *Bulletin of the Bureau of Rolls and Library of the Department of State,*No. 6, Washington, 1894-1896 page 372, and that the manuscript so calendared is now in the Library of Congress. Virtually none of the Jefferson manuscripts in the Bureau of Rolls (all of which are now in the Library of Congress) were printed in full in the “Calendar”which appeared in volumes 6 (letters from Jefferson) and 8 (letters to Jefferson) of the Bulletin. It is hoped that no student will be misled by this type-saving method of entry. All other printings indicated are assumed to be complete unless otherwise stated.

Docketing, and other brief endorsements on letters are indicated simply by the word "endorsed" unless they appear to require special comment. "Endorsed by T. J." indicates that such an endorsement is in Jefferson's autograph. Spelling has normally been corrected outside of direct quotations, and we have never hesitated to expand "Mr. Randolph" to "Thomas Mann Randolph" when the identity is certain. Square brackets have, therefore, been rather sparingly used to supply missing names, facts, and dates in the headings which could be supplied with reasonable certainty. In summarizing the texts of letters and other items, the main object has been brevity rather than any attempt to reproduce the original language. Parentheses have been freely used in the summaries for the provision of explanatory comment.

All manuscripts not otherwise designated are in our general collection of Jefferson Papers. Others are listed in the heading of the entry as being in the McGregor Library (which is the most important of the special libraries constituting the Division of Rare Books and Manuscripts) or in any of our various collections of manuscripts which happen to contain papers of Jefferson, such as the following: the Berkeley Manuscripts, the Cabell Papers, the Carr-Cary Papers, the Cocke Papers, the Edgehill-Randolph Papers, and the Page-Walker Papers. Some of these special collections are not owned by the University, but are on deposit for safekeeping and historical reference. Other privately owned individual manuscripts on deposit are listed with the owner's name. Photographic copies can be provided in most cases, but a few are subject to restrictions stipulated by the owner.

It will be noted that we have included certain manuscripts of Jefferson's father which have some relevancy to the career of the son. In addition to a few special photostats already mentioned, a number of older transcripts of Jefferson's papers have also been included. The most important of these are the copies and extracts made by Martha Jefferson Randolph and her daughters and by Nicholas P. Trist during the decade following Jefferson's death. These and other copies have been identified in the headings. In a considerable number of cases, however, chiefly of copies which appear to have been made by or for members of the family, we have had to fall back on the expression, "19th century copy".

Omitted from this calendar are a number of papers in this library which were once in Jefferson's possession, or closely associated with him, but which were not composed, drafted, or endorsed by him. Such, for example, are the groups of legal papers, 1740-1759, which Robert Carter Nicholas turned over to him as attorney in 1771; a correspondence of the Associates of the late Doctor Bray, 1757-1773, concerning the Negro school at Williamsburg, sponsored by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; correspondence of Robley Dunglison with Jefferson's biographer, Henry S. Randall; and great numbers of letters by Jefferson's executor and by members of his immediate family which are to be found in the University archives and such of our collections as the Carr-Cary Papers, the Edgehill-Randolph Papers, and the Francis Walker Gilmer Manuscripts. Typical of other materials omitted are an eighteen-page manuscript pedigree of the Jefferson family, compiled by Paul Berghaus, and kept with our Jefferson Papers for the convenience of researchers; memorial addresses following Jefferson's death in 1826; and letters of condolence to his family. A revealing item of Jeffersoniana, omitted here, but shortly-to be published by the library as a separate volume, is the manuscript of the recollections of Isaac Jefferson, a household slave at Monticello, as dictated in old age to the historian, Charles Campbell.

One conspicuous omission which we hope will not be attributed to ingratitude has been that of the names of donors. From 1825 to 1949 we have received from Jefferson himself, from every generation of his descendants, and from a host of admirers of Jefferson and friends of the University, gifts of Jeffersoniana or funds for their acquisition. The addition of donors' names to already elaborate calendar headings, particularly in the group entries covering numerous separate gifts, might, we feel, confuse the student. In our published annual reports we attempt at least to record from year to year the names of the benefactors on whom we rely so heavily for the growth of the collections.

To the Research Council of the Richmond Area University Center we are indebted for the grant-in-aid which has made possible this publication. The courtesy and patience of the Administrator and of the members of the Council in connection with our unavoidable delays in printing are particularly appreciated.

If this work had a dedication, it would be to Harry Clemons, who brought the Manuscript Division into being, whose faith has a way of moving mountains, and to whom all of the daily tasks of our staff are truly dedicated by our admiration and affection.

Organization

The Jefferson Papers are listed in this calendar in two broad categories: Series I, Dated Materials (arranged chronologically); and Series II, Miscellaneous Undated Items.

Contents List

Series I: Dated Materials

LAND TITLE PAPERS.

Unit Date 1732-1826.

Extent 25 items. Edgehill-Randolph Papers, #1397.

Scope and Content

Deeds, plats, patents, and other legal papers concerning lands in Albemarle, Fluvanna, Goochland, Henrico, and Powhatan Counties, several of which establish the chain of title to Edgehill. Deeds for land owned by the Randolph Family (Richard Randolph, Jr., Thomas Mann Randolph, Thomas Jefferson Randolph), the Eppes Family (Francis Eppes, Richard Eppes, and William Eppes), and the Nicholas Family (John Nicholas, George Nicholas, and Robert Carter Nicholas.) Jefferson items are more fully calendared under dates 6 June 1751 and 29 March 1762. [1]

PETER JEFFERSON to WILLIAM RANDOLPH, JR.

Unit Date 1735 September 16.

Extent

D. 1 pp. Typescript. Original in Goochland County Court House. Copy attested by Margaret K. Miller, Clerk. #2179.

Scope and Content

Power of attorney, acknowledged before Henry Wood, Clerk. [2]

PETER JEFFERSON to WILLIAM RANDOLPH, JR.

Unit Date 1736 May 18.

Extent

D. 2 pp. Typescript copy of original in Goochland County Court House, attested by Margaret K. Miller, Clerk. #2179.

Scope and Content

Deed for 3 acres of land in Goochland County. This deed was executed on the same day as one from Randolph to Jefferson, the payment in the latter being "Henry Wetherburn's biggest bowl of Arrack punch". [3]

PETER JEFFERSON'S MARRIAGE BOND.

Unit Date 1739 October 3.

Extent

DS. 1 pp. Photostat. Original in Goochland County Court House. #38-122-b.

Scope and Content

Marriage bond for £50 signed by Peter Jefferson and countersigned by Arthur Hopkins, void if there be lawful cause to obstruct Jefferson's marriage with Jane Randolph. [4]

PETER JEFFERSON. MAP OF VIRGINIA-NORTH CAROLINA BOUNDARY.

Unit Date 1749.

Extent

ADS. Measurements: 6' 2" x 11"; scale of miles 1": 5 mi.
#38-628.

Physical Location OS Tray 19

Scope and Content

Original map of the Virginia-North Carolina boundary to show the extension of William Byrd's survey of 1728 from Peter's Creek to Steep Rock Creek, as surveyed in 1749 by Joshua Fry and Peter Jefferson.

The legend, and presumably the entire drawing, is in the hand of Peter Jefferson. No other original map of the line of 1749 is known, but a "tracing" (preliminary draft?) of this boundary line, with an almost identical legend but in a different hand, is owned by the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington, D. C. (E. G. Swem, Maps Relating to Virginia . . . p. 58). [6]

POPLAR FOREST SURVEYS AND PLATS.

Unit Date 1751 March 30 et seq.

Extent

3 items (one a T. J. AD and one endorsed by T. J.) McGregor Library.
#564.

Scope and Content

Two plats of same date for 11,777 and 1,790 acres of land on branches of Black Water, and on Tomahawk and Rock Castle creeks, respectively, of Black Water, a tributary of the Fluvanna (James) River in Albemarle (later Bedford) County, Va. Both surveyed for Thomas Ballow, William Dawson, Joshua Fry, Peter Jefferson, Charles Lynch, and Thomas Turpin. Indicate lands owned by Blankenship, Chetwood, Samuel Cobbs, Jr., Nicholas Davies, John Dawson, Francis Galloway, James, Hardwick, Benjamin Johnson, Thomas Meriwether, Rev. Mr. Stith, Richard Tullos, G. Walton, and John Wayles. First plat attested by Daniel Smith, Albemarle County Surveyor; second amended by T. J. with notes on sequence of titles. [7], N-255, N-269

PLAT OF THE TOWN OF BEVERLEY, Henrico County surveyed by Peter Jefferson.

Unit Date 1751 June 6.

Extent

D. 1 pp. Endorsed by T. J. Edgehill-Randolph Papers,
#1397.

Physical Location Edgehill-Randolph OS Box

Scope and Content

Indicates lots belonging to T. J. [8]

Unit Date 1776-1779.

Extent

D. 205 pp. Index: AD by T. J. 4 pp. #38-755.

Physical Location Slipcase, shelved with other slipcases and volumes.

Scope and Content

A committee of five, consisting of Jefferson, Thomas Ludwell Lee, George Mason, Edmund Pendleton, and George Wythe, were appointed by the Virginia Convention of 1776 to draft a revision of the Virginia laws--the genesis of Jefferson's epochal work for religious and intellectual freedom. Lee died, Mason resigned, and the work was divided among the other three. Jefferson prepared the sections on common law and statutes to 4 James I; Wythe prepared the British statutes from that date to 1776; Pendleton worked on laws passed in Virginia. The index is in Jefferson's hand, the ordinances in several other hands, probably of clerks of the committee. Jefferson indexes 126 bills, 66 of which are included in this draft. The bills were printed by Dixon and Holt, Richmond, 1784. [29]

T. J. continues with a discussion of how much unmerited abuse and praise he has suffered in public service, his wish for retirement, the outcome of the election of 1796 which he knows Adams will win adding "I know well that no man will ever bring out of that office the reputation which carries him into it. the honeymoon would be as short in that case as in any other, & it's moment of extasy would be ransomed by years of torment & hatred." He predicts he will live in peace while Adams will be shipwrecked in the gathering storm, but nevertheless urges Rutledge to continue in national public office for "there is no bankrupt law in heaven by which you may get off with shillings in the pound, with rendering to a single state what you owed to the whole confederacy." ALS. 1 pp. on 1 leaf; on verso of an address leaf detached from a letter sent to T. J. (possibly from John Vaughan of Philadelphia dated 1815 March 19).
Docketed by T. J. The leaf is addressed to "Thomas Jefferson, Monticello, Virginia" with "Milton" added in a different hand between the words "Monticello" and "Virginia"; here is also a "Free" frank stamp, a partially legible postmark, and the remnants of a wax seal.
#16346.

Scope and Content

T. J. writes to Patrick Gibson regarding the sale of tobacco which T. J. has recently learned "sells high and readily"; he asks Gibson to sell his tobacco "as soon as you think advisable." As for the sale of his flour, T. J. suggests it is "best to give time for the European vessels which would not adventure to sail until they learnt there our ratification of the treaty, to arrive and produce here a full competition of demand" which he thinks will happen in May. T. J. asks Gibson to sell the flour "for whatever price shall then be going" unless Gibson receives a comparable price before then. T. J. states that he will "in the course of the present week or next" send Gibson $2000 of Treasury notes. T. J. closes with expressions of esteem and respect. [1345]

Unit Date 1820 April 22.

Extent

ALS. 2 pp. Paul Mellon Bequest. #11619. Printed: L and B XV, 248-50.

Scope and Content

T. J. thanks Holmes for a copy of his pamphlet “Mr. Holmes' letter to the people of Maine” in which Holmes argued that any restriction on the admission of Missouri would be unconstitutional. T. J. responds that the issue of the extension of slavery to the territories which was temporarily solved by the Missouri Compromise has "like a fire-bell in the night, awakened and filled me with terror. I considered it at once as the knell of the Union." He writes of the difficulty of a practical solution to the issue of slavery and emancipation for "we have the wolf by the ear, and we can neither hold him, nor safely let him go. Justice is in one scale, and self-preservation in the other." T. J. believes that a diffusion of slavery over a broader territory would make emancipation easier and cautions against Congress interfering in state issues. He concludes that he will now die believing "that the useless sacrifice of themselves by the generation of 1776 ... is to be thrown away by the unwise and unworthy passions of their sons, and that my only consolation is to be, that I live not to weep over it." Scope and Content

Rough drafts, finished plans, and specifications for various buildings.

C. Five floor plans; pencil sketches with ink specifications, showing varying arrangements of centrally located circular and elliptical rooms. Perhaps drawings for unidentified residences; or tentative sketches proposed for the Capitol and Governor's House in Richmond (actually constructed from other plans); or more probably sketches for the President's House in Washington, made in preparation for anonymous submission of an entry in the competition announced by the Commissioners of Federal Buildings, 1792. [2336, N-409, N-410]

THOMAS JEFFERSON DRAWINGS.

Scope and Content

Rough drafts, finished plans, and specifications for various buildings.

D. First and second floor plans for a square residence with north and south porticoes, wings connected to the main building by arcades; ink drawings. Students of Jeffersonian architecture have identified these drawings as (1) tentative studies for the President's House and (2) tentative studies for the Governor's House at Richmond. (See Fiske Kimball's article cited above). It may be noted that the one parlor shown occupies less than one ninth of the first floor, which is largely occupied by bedrooms, a nursery, etc.--a much simpler plan than that of the Governor's House at Williamsburg--suggesting that this plan may be for an unidentified country residence.
